Big Registration Will Make Fast Voting Necessity—Other Information

Inasmuch as there are over 1000 more voters registered in Narberth at this election than there were in 1924, it behooves everyone to vote as early and as quickly as possible on Tuesday. Women are especially requested to vote between the hours of 11 and 3 which will be the quietest. With 2825 registered voters in the Borough, it means that things will have to move rapidly at the polls or else many will be deprived of their vote. The polls open at 7 A. M. and close promptly at 7 P. M. Unless one is in line and inside the voting place by the closing time, he loses his chance to vote. Being in the line but on the outside of the polls does not help any.

The polling places are as follows for the three election districts: District No. 1, Elm Hall; District No. 2, Cook Brothers' store, 104 Essex avenue; District No. 3, Boy Scout house (south side).

Two sets of officials who will come into their own next week are the judges of election and Inspectors of election. The former are Ralph E. Seaboldt, J. W. McAuliffe and J. Baird Caldwell for districts 1, 2 and 3 respectively. The Inspectors of election are District No. 1, C. C. Mason; District No. 2, C. C. Tyson; District No. 3, Addison H. Durborav.

Voting information distributed by the committee of 70, of Philadelphia, points out the following facts which pertain to Boroughs and Townships. "Residents of boroughs and townships, where personal registration is not required, cannot be disfranchised through failure of assessors to place their names on the registry lists. If the name is omitted from the registry list, and he is otherwise qualified, he shall be admitted to vote, upon making affidavit that he meets legal residence requirements, supported by the affidavit of some qualified voter of the district as a witness, and submission of proof that he has paid tax." The authority for this statement is the Act of 1899, sec. 1, P. L. 254.

ANNUAL RED CROSS ROLL CALL NEARS

Narberth Citizens Urged to Subscribe Thru Local Solicitors.

With the twelfth annual membership drive of the Red Cross imminent, Narberth citizens are urged by Mrs. Emily B. Jacobs, local chairman, to enroll through their own town. On previous occasions many have subscribed in Philadelphia, not realizing the importance of contributing through Narberth. Since the borough enjoys Main Line Red Cross privileges it reflects more creditably if its proportionate amount is subscribed here.

Narberth's contribution last year was $841.70. This year it hopes to make it over the $1000 mark, which can easily be accomplished if every Narberth contributor gives through his home town.

The names of the solicitors and their territories will be announced next week.

Failure to Make Point After Touchdown Sends L. M. High Down to First Defeat

Lower Merion High School bowed to Lansdowne Saturday at Ardmore by a score of 7 to 6 for its first defeat of the season. It was a rather bitter pill to swallow, because the clan of Adam had proved its power unmistakably in the first quarter when it marched down the field for first down after first down to score the lone Ardmore touchdown. Then it folded up and let a team which was able to score only one first down during the entire first-half play win on a break. This defeat puts Lower Merion in a hole so far as the suburban championship is concerned. The Maroon will have to win all of its remaining games and Lansdowne will have to lose one for the local team to share the championship.

For Election Returns

Call Ardmore 3100-3253

Readers who desire returns next Tuesday night on the course of the Smith-Hoover contest in Lower Merion and Narberth may have them by telephoning the main office of the Livingston Publishing Company in Ardmore. Two trunk lines will be kept open to handle all calls, and a staff of nine reporters will be on duty to cover the returns for the 16 election districts of the township and the borough.

Arrangements will also be made to get brief summaries of the voting in the county and in Philadelphia. As for the national returns—you can get them quicker on your own radio—but readers who wish may call for these also or drop in at the office, located at 35 Cricket avenue, Ardmore. There will be a radio installed to bring in these returns.

Remember the phone numbers. Ardmore 3100 and Ardmore 3253. Do not call branch offices in Bala-Cynwyd or Narberth.

PROMINENT WOMEN TO SPEAK MONDAY

Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Lorimer and Mrs. Brown at Elm Rally.

IS LAST G. O. P. FLING

With election four days off local Republicans are mustering their forces for "Der Tag." The closing event of the G. O. P. campaign in the borough will be a meeting at Elm Hall Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, which will be addressed by Mrs. George Horace Lorimer, Mrs. H. S. Prentice Nichols and Mrs. H. Tapnell Brown, Jr.

Mrs. Lorimer is well known as the president of the Republican Women of Pennsylvania, while Mrs. Nichols, born and raised a Georgia Democrat, is now enrolled in the Republican ranks. Mrs. Lorimer was a speaker at a political meeting in Elm Hall four years ago. Mrs. Brown is perhaps better known as Governor Fisher's daughter.

Every interested voter is invited to hear William Allen White, who will speak at the Hannah Penn House, Seventeenth and Locust streets, Philadelphia, this evening at 8 P. M.

The local Hoover headquarters wishes to remind voters that automobiles are available to take voters of each district to the polls on election day and may be secured by calling Mrs. E. C. Griswold. Calls may also be left at the headquarters (Narberth 1121).

On election day a special luncheon and dinner will be served at the Hoover headquarters by the Arcadia Restaurant. Luncheon, 50 cents; dinner, 65 cents. Reservations may be made with any of the workers at the headquarters.

Plenty of sample ballots are available at the headquarters for Republican voters to check the amendments on beforehand and thus speed up the voting.

A radio will also be installed in the headquarters at 100 Narberth avenue to receive returns.

King's Daughters

The regular meeting of the Evangelical Circle of King's Daughters will be held on Wednesday, November 7, at 10.30 A. M.

PEPPER TO SPEAK AT POST BANQUET

Major General Booth, U. S. A., and Jack Kelly Also on Program.

IS MONDAY, THE 12th

The annual Armistice day banquet of the Harold D. Speakman Post, No. 356, of Narberth, to be held this year on Monday night, November 12, at 6.45 o'clock, promises to be the biggest event of its kind ever staged in the borough.

It is not every day nor every year for that matter, that people have the opportunity to hear a former United States Senator or a major general of the United States Army, nor an Olympic champion, but such is their good luck this year.

One of the speakers will be Senator George Wharton Pepper, whose last appearance in the borough was at the time of the testimonial dinner to the late C. Howard McCarter. Senator Pepper is an exceptionally able speaker and, coming as this event does on the heels of the Presidential election, he will no doubt have some interesting commentary on the President-elect.

It is particularly fitting that an organization such as the Legion, being of military derivation, should have a soldier as one of the speakers. The Post is particularly gratified to announce that Major General Booth, assistant chief of staff of the United States Army, will be that speaker. General Booth will come from Washington specially for this affair.

The third speaker will be a Philadelphian, well known here either personally or by reputation, Jack Kelly, twice Olympic champion in the single sculls, who retired undefeated.

The Horn & Hardart Orchestra will supply tuneful melodies for the occasion, and McIntyre will be the caterer.

Inasmuch as the affair is to be held in the Legion room of the Community Building on Windsor, the number of guests that can be accommodated is limited, hence tickets should be bought as early as possible. They are on sale by William H. Durbin at 31 North Narberth avenue.

RAIGUEL SPEAKER AT FALL LUNCHEON

Clubwomen Enthralled by Discourse on History in the Making.

GAVE FINE RESUME

Dr. George Earl Raiguel held his audience of 100 Woman's Community Club members and guests enthralled as he spoke of "History in the Making" at the fall luncheon of the club on October 30.

"The future generations," he said, "will envy the people of this day because they have lived through such great epochs of history in the making. The whole world is looking toward peace, but especially is it leaning on the public opinion expressed by our nation so young and strong." He mentioned the Kellogg multilateral treaty and spoke of how it is being interpreted by the different nations. This treaty, the speaker pointed out, is a definite mark in history as it is the first treaty to emphasize every peaceful method first before employing military means of settlement, and it ushers in a new era of peace as an objective in settling affairs instead of war.

"We have no alliances," Dr. Raiguel said, "and we want peace but cannot pave the road of peace with cardboard; we must build a firm road with solid foundations and hope for the day when the world can disarm." Speaking of our own coming election he stated that the nations abroad want Hoover, as they think it would stop world progress for four years to have a change in political

TAKES ONE MINUTE TO EMPTY SCHOOL

Noel, Investigating School Alarm System, Finds All Is Well.

NO WARNING WAS GIVEN

One Friday morning last month Fire Chief Charles V. Noel decided it would be well to see how the fire alarm system was working at the Borough Schools. So without any warning he appeared at the school and asked George H. Wilson to pull the bell which was done immediately. The thoroughly efficient and satisfactory manner in which the pupils absented themselves from the building is well shown in Chief Noel's letter to Dr. LeRoy A. King, secretary of the Narberth School Board, which was read at the school board meeting last Friday night. The letter follows:

October 8, 1928.

Dr. LeRoy A. King, Secretary, Narberth School Board, Narberth, Pa.

Dear Mr. King: I wish to commend Principal George H. Wilson and the teachers of the Narberth Public School for the wonderful way they have trained the pupils in leaving the school when the fire bell in the school rings.

Without any notice on the above day I called at the school, saw Mr. Wilson and requested him to pull the fire bell, which he did immediately.

In less than one minute the school children were all out of the school and standing in line some distance away from the school on the school grounds.

The people of Narberth should feel very proud to know that the children are so well trained at the Borough School. In case of fire there would be no trouble in the school leaving the school since the manner in which they walked out was excellent.

Yours truly,
CHARLES V. NOEL,
Chief Engineer.

All the school board members were present to hear the report of the Tax Collector, Edwin P. Dold, who stated that all 1927 school taxes had now been collected.

The Board again approved the recommendation to use the toxin-anti-toxin and Shick tests at the school, subject to the approval of the individual parents.

SPECIAL SERVICE ON ARMISTICE DAY

Post Sponsoring Union Celebration at Theater on November 11th.

HART WILL BE SPEAKER

The Harold D. Speakman Post, No. 356, American Legion, is planning a special Sunday service in celebration of Armistice day this year. In place of the usual Sunday morning attendance by the Post as a body at one of the local churches, there will be a Sunday evening service in the Narberth Theater at 7.45 P. M., which will be a union service and will take the place of the usual Sunday night services of the various churches.

At this celebration the Rev. John R. Hart, Jr., chaplain of the University of Pennsylvania, will be the speaker. Mr. Hart is a young man, very well liked, and the Post is happy in securing such a popular and able man.

He is highly regarded by the undergraduates at Penn. which speaks well for the vitality and enthusiasm of the man. Jocularly characterized as the rejuvenator of depressed football teams, he exercises a very potent influence on the spiritual life at the university.

All of the local churches are looking forward with enthusiasm to this Armistice day union service, to which all their parishioners are invited as well as those who have no connection with the local churches or Post.

Gets Loving Cup

Squire Fred Walzer, retiring manager of the Narberth baseball team, who was presented with a loving cup Tuesday night at a banquet given the team by men of the borough.

Narberth Men Honor Winning Baseball Club

America's national sport was glorified in Narberth Tuesday night when the local baseball team was dined by the men of the borough. The celebration was a double one, honoring a pennant-winning nine, and giving thanks for a financially successful season. Two notes of sadness ran through the gathering. It was the occasion of the retirement of Fred Walzer as manager, and it was the day of the funeral of C. Howard McCarter, a player in the early days of the town.

John J. Cabrey was toastmaster, and at the speakers' table with him were prominent figures in civic life and the baseball world. Melody, supplied by Bill Lawrence and members of the St. Margaret's minstrel troupe, enlivened the evening.

"We are celebrating the 11th baseball championship for Narberth in 20 years," said toastmaster Cabrey, "and at the same time we are gathered for the swan song of the manager who has led the team through most of these years." He then went on to trace the history of Fred Walzer's connection with the club and presented him with a silver loving cup in honor of his work.

The early days were also brought to mind by Manager Fred in accepting the gift. When he asked how many of the team of 20 years ago were in the room, five men raised their hands. He read a list of the players on the team in 1910, when the first pennant was won by Narberth.

Planning Bazaar

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Lutheran Church will hold its annual bazaar on November 30 and December 1 in the Caldwell building on Haverford avenue. There will be an abundance of fancy articles suitable for Christmas gifts, as well as aprons and groceries. On Saturday the delicatessen booth will display home-made cakes, pies, baked beans, pig's feet and other delicacies.

Scouts Visit Conawingo

The local Boy Scout troop received a treat recently in the form of a trip to and through the Conawingo dam. They were accompanied by Scoutmaster George Schroder and Gregory Murphy.

Vote for State Forestry Bond Issue, Carl P. Birkinbine Urges Rotary Club

Carl Peter Birkinbine, former president of the Neighborhood Club of Bala-Cynwyd, was the speaker Tuesday at the meeting of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club. His subject was the 'Constitutional Amendment for the Forestry Bond Issue.'

Mr. Birkinbine appeared at the request of L. Stanley King, who was himself absent, due to a recent accident. The speaker gave an explanation of the proposed bond issue and the reasons why it should be passed.

"The amendment calls for a total issue of $25,000,000," he said. "But of this sum not more than $2,500,000 can be spent in any one year for the purchase of waste land at a price not greater than $10 per acre.

HOWARD McCARTER CLAIMED BY DEATH

Was Pioneer Resident and School Board Member for 30 Years.

END CAME SUDDENLY

C. Howard McCarter, for more than 30 years a member of the Narberth School Board, died last Saturday, October 27, 1928, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. R. J. Hunt, at Haddonfield, N. J., from where the funeral occurred on last Tuesday afternoon.

Interment was made in the burial ground of the Bryn Mawr Baptist Church with Rev. Robert E. Keighton, of Narberth, officiating.

Mr. McCarter was on the way to recovery from a three weeks' illness when he was stricken with the heart attack which caused his death.

He is survived by four children, Mary (Mrs. Hunt), Charles, Herbert and Everts. His wife died in July, 1927.

Mr. McCarter was a charter member of the Narberth Fire Company and its first financial secretary. He was the manager of the first Narberth baseball team and an active player for many years. He was treasurer of the Narberth Building and Loan Association and also treasurer of the Ninth Ward Building and Loan Association of Philadelphia.

He was a member and treasurer of the Chestnut Street Baptist Church. He belonged to the Masonic order and was a member of Lulu Temple.

It was 35 years ago when Howard McCarter brought his bride, who was Elizabeth Richards, from Bryn Mawr, and they started their married way in the home at Rockland and Merion avenues, which they continued to occupy until a few years ago. With his brother-in-law, Samuel S. Richards, he engaged in the real estate business, using as an office the present Boy Scout headquarters, the old Log Cabin erected by the Spring Garden Company nearly 40 years ago at the south side of the railroad station.

The firm was probably the most active factor in the development of Prominent Speakers at Smith-for-President Rally Tonight.

A Smith-for-President rally will be held tonight in Elm Hall at 8.30 o'clock when addresses will be made by speakers of national importance and also by local celebrities, including Robert J. Sterrett, former United States District Attorney; Hon. William J. Carroll, O. B. Hunt, Mrs. Gertrude McBride, Joseph S. Dougherty and Joseph L. Kelley.

The Philadelphia headquarters, it is said, are particularly interested in the meeting, and it is expected that several additional outstanding campaigners will be on hand to make addresses.

According to the managers of the Smith-for-President movement in Narberth, there has been a considerable impetus in the number of voters who plan to support the

AT THE THEATRE

It finally took the movies to bring to the screen, with all its grandeur and romance, "The Blue Danube," in a fascinating picture of that title which opens at the Narberth Theater Friday and Saturday.

A more impressive love story could not have been conceived for the theme of this pictorially magnificent and spectacularly absorbing De Mille picture production released by Pathé. "The Blue Danube" is an amazing study in character contrast, mixing the humble peasants of the hinterland with the pompous plutocrats of royalty. Lentrice Joy makes an appealing daughter of a poor peasant family whose winsome charm catches the eye of Nils Asther, in the role of a son of nobility.

Scenes of the gay festival of the Danube, where Asther violates all precedent by selecting the beautiful peasant girl as the queen, are pictorial triumphs for Director Paul Sloane. From here he carries his story speedily and adroitly through a complicated plot which never for a minute reveals the next development.

The situation of a girl apparently abandoned by her lover marrying a hideous and scheming hunchback, presented in a masterly style, and Sloane has extracted the utmost from a climax that is mysterious and spell binding.

Miss Joy and Asther have fine characterizations, while Joseph Schildkraut gives a striking portrayal as the hunchback. Others in notable parts are Seena Owen, Frank Reicher and Albert Gran.

When a motion picture can gain the fame and prestige that have come, for instance, to "The Cabinet of Doctor Caligari," which will be the feature at the Narberth Theater next week there must be some very good reasons for it. An ordinary program picture is soon forgotten, and an "epic" can hang on only a certain length of time, but to belong to the small gallery of immortal films is to belong to that part of the world's endeavors known as art. In the case of "Caligari," however, the memory of the film was kept green, but the actual film itself disappeared. In 1926, however, as the National Board of Review put it, "the Somnambulist awakened." The Somnambulist in question is Cesare, a leading character of the film enacted by Conrad Veidt. Once more Cesare committed his dastardly murders on an American screen, and once more audiences were left breathless at the beauty, weirdness and fantastic fascination of "Caligari."

Methodists Working on Christmas Bazaar

Plans are rapidly taking shape for the annual Christmas Bazaar of the Methodist Church to be given this year on December 8th. It will be held at Elm Hall.

Tentative arrangements call for several new booths, among them a doll booth, children's table, parcel post booth, cake booth, blanket booth and many others. Mrs. L. M. Wright, Mrs. William S. Deaves, Mrs. C. M. McCracken and several other women of the committee are busy preparing the material.

A chicken supper will also be served in connection with the Bazaar, beginning at 5.30 P. M. Light refreshments will also be served at noon for the bazaar workers.

The Methodist Bazaar has always been noted for the excellence of the things available for Christmas shoppers and this year promises to be no exception in this respect.

METEORS LEAD IN CHURCH BOWLING

Season Opens Auspiciously on Alleys of New Ardmore Club.

PLAY EVERY FRIDAY

The results of the first two meetings of the Inter-Church Bowling League find the Meteors off in front, followed closely, however, by the Pep boys.

The Inter-Church League has the use of eight of the ten alleys every Friday night, which enables each team to play every other team and does away with the A and B leagues necessary last season because of crowded conditions.

Letters to Editor

Pro Hoover

To the Editor of Our Town:
Realizing that the opinion of Mr. Average Man has not yet been expressed through the columns of our esteemed paper, it is with pleasure that I submit an extract from the speech of a prominent layman which was given in Boston last week.

From "The Christian Science Monitor," October 20, 1928.

The speaker was Joseph C. Scott, of Los Angeles, a Knight Commander of St. Gregory and one of the three lay speakers at the Eucharistic Congress of 1926 in Chicago, who was continuing a campaign of several days in Massachusetts against injection of religious considerations into the Presidential election.

Mr. Scott pleaded that religion be forgotten in the campaign, that the contest be stripped of false issues and settled entirely on the merits of the candidates and the platforms of the two political parties.

Follows Lincoln.

"The Republican party takes its philosophy of religious toleration from Lincoln," he said. "Thomas Jefferson was a great Democrat and established religious freedom, but he was not concerned about the Catholic Church. The problem with the Virginians was to prevent any so-called Protestant Church from securing advantage over other denominations of the Protestant Church for State support or State endowment."

Touching "Genuine Issues."
Touching what he said are the genuine issues between the two candidates, Mr. Scott said: "We have heard Governor Smith throughout this campaign announcing to the people of this country that he will retain boards of experts to tell him what to do on great problems—and there is where the difference between the two candidates for President comes in."

"Smith would hire boards of experts to tell him what to do. Hoover, as his career well shows, would never get a board of experts to tell him what to do—he would tell the board what to do. And, in the language of the day, the board would say, 'Mr. President, you know your stuff.'"

The substance of this article will be proven by an overwhelming vote at the polls and will be the expression of most of us.

JAMES R. COOK.

Pro Smith

To the Editor of Our Town:
To the voter who wants to be fair and who wants to vote on the basis of intelligent judgment and straight fact, not on prejudice and hearsay, I venture to submit the following statements, whose truth, I believe, have not been denied by any responsible person:

Alfred E. Smith is a gentleman in the best sense of the word—not in the sense of external polish alone, though he conducts himself in his relations with persons of distinction and high social positions, as well as with less notable persons, as any gentleman would do. He is a gentleman at heart—genuinely considerate of others, friendly, gracious, happy and at ease in the company of persons of intelligence and refinement. The fact that he has had to learn in adult life some of the external graces of polite intercourse, instead of being born into the circle where these things are deemed of prime consequence, is rather a tribute to his inherent worth and his capacity for growth than the opposite. He has remained intensely human, free from cant, and able to meet other men on their own level without either pretension or hypocrisy. His warm friends include many whose high breeding and training, both intellectual and social, are beyond question.

Smith is a born leader, but no one has accused him of demagoguery. His honesty and sincerity have been proved under the critical eye of resourceful opponents through a long career. They have been attested again and again by eminent public men of all parties. His leadership has been won by consistent, straightforward appeal to public opinion, on the strength of fact and of reason. It is this sort of leadership that accounts for his success in persuading opposition legislators to accept his program, step by step, in spite of the systematic opposition of party organizations. No President ever entered office more certain of obtaining the co-operation of legislators of all parties than would Alfred E. Smith in view of his record.

Smith is an expert in government. Without exception and without qualification every newspaper and magazine in New York, where his whole work is well known, has again and again declared him to be the best Governor in the history of New York, with broader understanding of the problems of his State than any other man in public life.

He has received the support of independent political organizations like the Citizens' Union of New York City—inevitable foe of the old Tammany and ardent sponsor of political reform—in every campaign for a dozen years. His reorganization of the Government of New York State, over strenuous political opposition, is recognized as the most effective work of its kind done in any State in 25 years. It was absolutely nonpartisan in spirit, purpose and effect. It increased administrative efficiency and economy, but it also gave, for the first time, clear-cut, truthful, intelligible reports of the public business in a way that makes it possible for the ordinary citizen to know what is going on and to judge of results.

Smith is a progressive. Again and again he has taken leadership in behalf of good causes that most politicians shy from, as too abstruse or too idealistic to warrant practical consideration and carried them to success. He speaks and acts for the inarticulate mass of citizens who suffer most from injustice and misunderstanding. His progressivism is most clearly shown in his passion for facts, in his reliance upon expert advice. His unparalleled record of social legislation—including workmen's compensation, mothers' assistance, regulation of working hours and conditions, water-power control, after-care of families of disabled workmen, development of adequate State institutions for care of independents, of State health service and public education, and countless other similar achievements—was not the result of a series of vague political gestures. Each one was worked out in advance, in consultation with real experts, so that before any single step was proposed, Smith was familiar with every problem and could speak opposition with unassailable fact. The same reliance upon fact and informed advice would be carried into the national field, where he would face the same kind of problems, only on a somewhat larger scale. He would make himself master of the facts and then would act progressively and energetically.

Smith is a liberal. He believes in and acts upon those ancient principles of democratic government—free speech, free conscience, free press and freedom of the person from unnecessary control and coercion. One of the bravest acts in the public career of any living American statesman was Smith's vote of the notorious Lusk bills, which originated in the post-war fears and suspicions of sedition and revolution, and which would have subjected every teacher in New York State to malicious political interference, snooping and spying while discharging her professional duties. Smith's statement of the basic principles of political and academic freedom, accompanying that veto, in the face of an almost universal hysteria of hate and fear, is a masterpiece of liberal writing—sane, fearless, eloquent and convincing.

These are positive reasons for support of Governor Smith. They account for the enthusiasm that his candidacy awakens, even among those who disagree with him upon particular issues. All that his friends ask is a conscientious, open-minded examination of the record. If, after knowing the facts, men still believe he is unworthy of confidence and unfit for the Presidency, they can, with fairness, vote against him. But any man or woman who votes against him, without knowing the facts, after listening only to the tales and insinuations of his enemies, moved only by a vague impression and vaguer fears, because he is neither a puritan nor a cavalier, but came up from the city streets, rather than from the small towns from which most of our Presidents have sprung, let them not pretend that they are voting with fairness or with intelligence.

KENNETH L. M. PRAY.

ACCEPTS OUR OFFER

To the Editor of "Our Town": You indicate your columns are available for a discussion of all sides of the political situation. We appreciate your fairness and request space for an outline of the Democratic position on some of the various issues as follows:

PROHIBITION: Smith promises rigid enforcement. His record makes plain he is incapable of false pretense. He also declares he shall interpret his decision as evidence that the people desire a thorough review of the entire case, with such corrections in the law as wisdom may dictate. The Governor has confined his criticisms of Volsteadism to the evil effects which have resulted from it. He refers to things which are all about us and which every good citizen must deeply regret. He has refrained from any philosophical survey and he rests his case on the actual evidence on hand. Those of his followers who can properly describe themselves as earnest advocates of real temperance supply additional reasons of their own, based on their knowledge of all civilizations, which confirm the necessity for further legislation. Such students set forth the claim that no law can be permanent which needs enforcement. It is hoped that this statement shall not be rejected unless pains are first taken to prove that it is fundamentally unsound. The history of tyranny and free governments must needs be consulted before any accurate conclusion can be reached. It should not be a matter of emotion or prejudice, but altogether a sincere desire to learn what it is possible to do and what simply cannot be done. The investigation must sink deep into the very roots of all Christian procedure and it must not avoid consideration of the influence of a God-given free will in the scheme of human destiny. It is from such contemplations, such serious studies, according to many Smith adherents, that progress will come, and they point to worldwide advancement in the cause of temperance, based on such premises, which far exceed anything which has been achieved under the American policy of calling on the police power to inhibit the duty of religion, education and cultural activities. For instance, the liquors in England (where reasonable liquor regulations exist) reveal a most impressive decrease in the use of spirits and beer, so much so that the drinking of alcoholic things might be expected to become a lost art in the tight little island within one or two generations and without any prohibition law.

English consumption of spirits: 1900—32,239,522 gallons. 1913—22,004,432 gallons. 1927—10,412,921 gallons. The figures for 1928 to date indicate a still further notable decrease. The English and Scotch beer consumption, based on bulk barrels, has been as follows:

England	31,810,877	30,758,800	23,418,640
Scotland	2,260,759	2,110,666	1,673,576

More important than that is the estimate that ten million British citizens have become teetotalers as a result of their own convictions, bringing real joy in heaven, as compared to the obvious increase in the number of American drinkers during the period of our prohibition.

No citizen, stirred by an affection for his country and an honest concern for its youth, can rest content with the situation as it is and neither can he say, if he has applied to the wealth of wisdom afforded by the ages which preceded him, that it is only a question of time and that eventually all will be well. Herbert Hoover knows better than that, as evidenced by his contribution to the record, and his failure to declare himself in a manner which corresponds with the convictions which he is known to possess, can only be described as political expediency of a shocking nature, and on this account alone he is rejected by thousands of voters who have heretofore followed the Republican standard. We hope there will be a great many more such in Narberth, in the interest of the national welfare and progress.

TARIFF: Governor Smith declares flat-footedly for a tariff which will protect all American interests and 80 per cent. of the Democratic Congressmen have publicly proclaimed that they approve the same thing. The remaining 20 per cent. had not as yet replied when this letter was written. There is no doubt at all that they are of a similar mind. Mr. Hoover demonstrated in Boston that he knows little about tariff needs or legislation. It would be easy to prove him an out-and-out free trader, and the New York newspapers have set forth that very thing. It is agreed, however, that he had meant to establish himself as anything except a Protectionist, the same as Governor Smith, but his unfortunate lack of facility in making himself understood, as proven by every speech he has made, certainly does not add to his qualifications as a proper leader of the American people. Business shall be safe under Smith and the interests of our great middle class, so ruthlessly disregarded during the last eight years, have more chance of rehabilitation than could possibly occur with the sombre viewpoint which has governed Mr. Hoover's ponderous procedure.

LEADERSHIP: For the first time in his career Mr. Hoover is altogether on his own in the making of important decisions. Always his work was cut out for him and its execution was chiefly a matter of resources and mechanics. The primary requisite of initiative seldom had to be employed. He performed splendidly in the midst of famine and flood, but always after the manner of his trade and out of the richest pocketbook in the world. He is now his own campaign manager. His orders are of his own selection. Admittedly, they are among the worst his party has to offer. In pretty nearly every case, they are grievous mistakes. Outstanding Republicans refuse to become active because of the situation which has developed. The candidate himself displays signs of great irritation. He has not sufficient personal influence to assure President Coolidge's earnest interest in his behalf.

half. So far the Chief Executive's enunciation has been confined to a dozen or so awkward words. Vice President Dawes has spoken once, and then indifferently. Others are as silent as the tomb. It should be remembered that Mr. Hoover has spent many years in Washington. His friends there should be legion. They are not, and his impossible personality, when working with others, is chiefly accountable for it. Those who know the basis of American progress are not surprised. No important business would dare delegate chief authority to a highly trained technical expert. Look over the list of our big corporations and see what kind of a man is on the captain's desk. The engineer is kept in his laboratory or in the field where he belongs and he is the fourth or fifth or sixth of the executives as a rule. That's where Mr. Hoover can excel, based on all we know about him, and that's where Mr. Smith could use him. The reasons advanced for Mr. Hoover's superiority on the score of experience are the most futile of the campaign. They conflict with what are known to be the actual essentials of all enterprise. They represent the kind of untrue things to which constant reiteration gives plausibility. Mr. Hoover knows least of what a leader should know most, and that is his own humanity. Smith towers all over him in this respect. The Governor can get along with other men. He has always worked with recalcitrant Legislatures. No record in New York exceeds his. Raskob says Hoover will wreck the works in less than a year. Those who have been through the mill can easily believe that to be so. Hoover is no leader, no harmonizer. Smith is. The country needs a leader, a harmonizer. The country needs Smith. Vote for him.

And so the plea in behalf of Smith could go on, making a heavy score on each count involving the happiness and welfare of the great American people. Surely patriots can agree that the silence and the smugness and the complacency of the last seven-and-a-half years are things which ought not to be repeated. The spirit of this land can never be glorified when those charged with high trusts are more disposed to conserve their partisan ends, when vital things are at stake, than they are to protect the public interests. The pages of our history are bespattered with stolen oils, the very life-blood of a nation's safety, and we have yet to hear a word from Hoover as to the scandal of it all, simply because the thieves were men of his own party, and neither can we forget that it was the very same party, and those high in it, who tried to block every plan for justice and public vengeance. A grateful nation provided well for its afflicted soldiers, and once again

VOTE FOR THE FOREST BOND ISSUE

AMENDMENT NUMBER 3

ELECTION NOVEMBER 6th

The Forest Bond Issue of $25,000,000 will purchase a total of 5,000,000 acres, an area equal to that of the State of New Jersey. This is to be bought and replanted at a cost of $5 per acre.

WHY SHOULD WE ENLARGE OUR STATE FORESTS?

Because it is a first-class business proposition.

Within fifty years these new forests should yield a net income of $2.40 to $4.00 per acre per year.

Maximum Yearly Loan	$2,500,000
Interest at 4 Per Cent.	100,000
Average Per Capita Tax	5 Cents
Maximum Annual Interest on Bonds	1,000,000
Estimated Income from Present Forests	3,500,000
Estimated Value of Present State Forests	14,000,000
Estimated Annual Income After This Financing	15,000,000

A FEW FACTS ABOUT THE FORESTRY SITUATION OF PENNSYLVANIA:

Total Area of Pennsylvania State Forests	1,150,000 acres
Other Forest and Waste Land	12,000,000 acres
Denuded Waste Land	7,000,000 acres
Total Area of the State of Pennsylvania	28,650,000 acres
Pennsylvania State Forests Were Started in 1898.
Income from These Forests to Date Is
Deposited for State School Fund	$734,782.00
Taxes Paid by State to Counties on These Forest Lands	427,402.00
Cost Per Acre of State Forests	$6,542.00
Present Value	$3.26
APPROPRIATED IN THE LAST EIGHT YEARS	12.00
Time Required at Present Rate of Purchase	$500,000
Lumber Imported into Pennsylvania from Outside	400 years
Pulp Wood Imported	84 per cent.
Yearly Cost of This Imported Lumber	70 per cent.
Yearly Freight on This Lumber	$50,000,000
Losses in Abandoned Lumber Sections	25,000,000
TOTAL PREVENTABLE YEARLY LOSSES	100,000,000

7,000,000 ACRES OF DENUDED WASTE LAND

Reforestation will put these waste lands to work again that denuded, as they are now, are costing us $100,000,000 yearly.

President Coolidge has said: "No other of our internal problems is of greater moment than the rehabilitation of our forests."

Dean Cooley, of the University of Michigan and president of the National Engineering Council, has written: "Reforestation is the most vital factor in the future welfare of our country."

If the future citizens of the State could speak to us they would say: "We can have forests only if you provide them. Purchase the idle forest land now and put it to work. You make the investment for us: we will help pay the interest on the bonds and the timber will pay off the principal."

While Pennsylvania is talking about a Forestry bond issue of $25,000,000 New York State is about to vote on a similar issue of $100,000,000. This money will repay itself as no other public improvement could. It will grow back into the taxpayers' pockets.

The U. S. Forest Service, New England, New York and Pennsylvania combined, have planted 70,000,000 annually, while Germany has been planting 1,722,000,000 trees annually.

"400" Special Six Sedan

f. o. b. factory (as illustrated)

"Welcome!" That's what America has said to the Twin-Ignition Motor

FROM the very day of the introduction of the new Nash "400", keen public interest has surrounded the new Twin-Ignition motor—

People everywhere are telling other people that they've never driven a car with so much sparkle and enthusiasm in its action—

—Or one that is as smooth and quiet at every speed, clear up to the top—

—Or one that needs so little gasoline.

Twin ignition, with high compression in the valve-in-head motor means more power, more snap, more speed, using ordinary gasoline, and less of it.

Before you buy your new car, come in. We'll give you the key to a Twin-Ignition-Motored "400". You take it out, and take a ride. That's all we ask!

*In the first three months following the "400" introduction "400" sales were nearly 75,000 cars, 14,000 more than the total of the best previous July, the best previous August and the best previous September in all Nash history.

9 Sedans from $885 to $1990, 8 Coupes, Cabriolets, Victorias from $885 to $1775, f. o. b. factory

Republican Traditions Can Best be Maintained by a Vote For ALFRED E. SMITH

As President of the United States VOTE FOR HIM!

THE MAN OF THE HOUR---Tried, Trustworthy and True---Four Terms as Governor of New York State, an Office Only Second in Importance to the Presidency---Always Elected by Republican Votes---Throughout the Land Patriots Rush to His Standard as He Points the Way to the Solution of Grave National Problems ---Growing Impatient With Present Procedure and Mr. Hoover's Refusal to Meet Squarely Any Single Issue Prompt Millions of Citizens to Cast Their First Democratic Votes---American Men and Women Are Now Called Upon to Protect Early Ideals of Representative Government---Their Decision Should Be Made With an Open Mind and Honest Heart, and by a Fair-Square Examination of All the Facts of the Case---

And What Are the Facts of the Case??

WHAT ARE THE FACTS ABOUT PROHIBITION?

Where is the man or woman who is satisfied with the present conditions?

Who will say that present law enforcement corresponds in its rigor with the ravages which an illegal liquor traffic is making on the peace and welfare of America?

Who will not prefer Smith's straightforward, clean-cut meeting of the issue as compared to Hoover's evasion, and which method is better calculated to assure a sober and temperate nation?

What is the real Republican background on this important matter and what was the prophecy of Chief Justice William H. Taft, former President of the United States?

Ten years ago, September 2, 1908, he wrote:

I am opposed to national prohibition. I am opposed to it because I think it is a mixing of the national Government in a matter that should be one of local settlement.

I am opposed to the presence of laws on the statute books that cannot be enforced and as such demoralize the enforcement of all laws.

I am not in favor of a national amendment which should force 12 or 15 great States into a sumptuary system which the public opinion and the real practices of the people of those States would not support.

The regulation of the sale and use of intoxicating liquors should be retained by the States. They can experiment and improve. They have the full power and the Federal Government has helped them by making it a Federal offense to import liquor into their borders if they forbid it. If the power of regulation is irrevocably committed to the general Government, the next generation will live deeply to regret it.

All this is simon-pure Republican doctrine as voiced in substance by every leader in the party from the beginning.

Good causes only thrive on the basis of truth and justice. Smith dares to declare his stand. Hoover avoids the issue. There is ample evidence he agrees with Smith. To whom should credit go for candor and superior statesmanship? When have Americans ever applauded an ostrich-like attitude? What would Lincoln have done under such circumstances? And where would Roosevelt have taken his stand?

All that is good in Prohibition will be protected and safeguarded by Smith.

That is why Dry Republicans and Dry Democrats the countrywide are supporting him.

That is why every advocate of a law-abiding nation ought to enlist in his cause.

VOTE FOR SMITH!

WHAT ARE THE FACTS ABOUT THE TARIFF?

Go through the stores of Philadelphia and see the welter of foreign merchandise which is offered for sale.

Millions of yards of fabrics of all kinds enter our ports, during the time when our local textile industry is on a 40 per cent. basis, but the consumer pays the price of the American product just the same.

Belgian cement by the cargo comes to pave our streets and to build our subways, while our own important Pennsylvania industry almost languishes and dies.

Meanwhile the opportunity to change it all is scorned by those in power and who could readily bring rescue to a distressed situation.

Note these increases in exports when a Protectionist Administration was supposed to be on guard:

	1923	1924	1925	1926	1927
Tapestry	11	19	32	44	54
Carpets	14	15	18	21	23
Wearing Apparel	91	96	131	146	170
Cotton Fabrics	25	37	52	78	91
Woolens	21	20	23	20	22

Each figure should be read in terms of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

When all this was going on our mills were on a short-time basis and an army of American mill workers were walking the streets.

It should also be pointed out that these figures represent invoice value of these goods at point of entry, not their American costs.

To cap the climax think over the significance of following figures: For the first three months of 1928 the total importation of Cotton Fabrics was 5,013,527 square yards higher than for the same period of 1927.

There has never been a more startling indifference to the needs of our national industry than that which has been displayed by the Administration of which Mr. Hoover was a part—and don't forget that a proper solicitude for the needs of business was supposed to be Mr. Hoover's particular part during the period under review.

The scene has shifted and now the new Democratic party takes hold of the tariff in a manner which indicates that it knows what it is about.

That is why Philadelphia manufacturers are turning to Smith, tired as they are of the log-rolling and back-scratching which have made a fiasco out of the legislation which is intended to conserve American industry.

There is no finer piece of constructive tariff planning than that which was contained in Governor Smith's great speech at Louisville.

It teems with old-time Republican principles—it regenerates the policies which have been so shamefully neglected by those who are now on the Republican deck.

A vote for Smith will be a vote for a Protective Tariff which rank-and-file Republicans understand such a thing should be.

VOTE FOR SMITH!

WHAT ARE THE FACTS ABOUT WATER POWER?

This is where a wide contrast exists between the two candidates.

Governor Smith has been outspoken and plain—the people know exactly what he thinks should be done.

Mr. Hoover has studiously avoided any declarations which would commit him to any definite plan.

Pressed by the Scripps newspapers which were supporting him, he reluctantly made a more or less specific statement about Muscle Shoals, only to modify it when he moved his base.

His inexplicable attitude on the general subject of Conservation has aroused the ire of thousands of Republicans and so it should.

The blessed rest of Roosevelt must surely be disturbed by his absurd references to "State Socialism" and they do say that Gifford Pinchot almost needs a straitjacket when he contemplates Mr. Hoover's queer stand on this important subject.

Let United States Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, set forth a widespread Republican opinion:

The most important question for solution now before the American people is the preservation of our God-given natural resources, and this brings us at once to the consideration of the power question. Recent developments have clearly shown that the power trust is the greatest monopolistic organization that has ever been put together by human ingenuity. The property controlled by this great combination is greater than the total value of all the railroads in the United States.

With its slimy fingers it reaches into every community and levies its tribute upon every fire-side. There is no avenue of human activity it has not undertaken to control.

It remained for Governor Smith, with a voice that reverberated from ocean to ocean and from lakes to gulf, to denounce the activities of this giant trust and to condemn, in the most courageous way, the activities of this great monopoly. For his courageous stand on this, the most important issue now confronting the American people, he is entitled to the warmest praise and commendation, regardless of politics or of party.

Herbert Hoover has remained silent. He has uttered no word of protest during all the time this has been going on, and during most of that time he has held a position of power and influence. Any man in such a position does not do his duty when he remains silent.

VOTE FOR SMITH!

WHAT ARE THE FACTS ABOUT SMITH SUPPORT?

Never in the history of any American political campaign has there been such a departure of Republicans to the Democratic ranks.

Whatever happens, no party will again dare to conduct itself as has the G. O. P. during recent years. The oil scandals, the cheating of the wounded veterans, the almost direct association of the Administration with the stock market, the utter lack of any party leadership, the strife in high places, the silence on important issues, the liquor laxities, the rigging of tariff appointments, the depressed business conditions, the high money rates—all these things, and many more, have set the best minds of the country awry, with the result that influential men by the score have deserted the old party and have espoused the cause of the New Man amongst us.

The newcomers would form a veritable Blue Book, and it is estimated that not less than 1000 "Captains of Industry" have subscribed to the new spirit in our national affairs.

Impressive, too, is the fact that a great majority of the faculties of every important college and university is strong for Smith and for reasons which make excellent reading.

Some of them will be quoted out of last week's issue of "TIME," which is not by any means a "funny paper," but which might seem to be when it reports some strange bed-fellows in the additions to Hooverism, to wit:

George Remus, of Cincinnati, onetime bootlegger, ex-convict, wife slayer: "I'm sure Mr. Hoover will be elected. I am for him, of course."

Mrs. Margaret Sanger, famed apostle of birth control. Reason: "Most politicians go in for externals, but Mr. Hoover has his interest embedded in fundamentals. . . . It was Mr. Hoover's regard for child life that won me."

The same edition of "Time" reports the following additions to the Smith movement:

Two-score Harvard professors, including Charles Townsend Copeland, Felix Frankfurter, Frank William Taussig, Kuno Franke, Bliss Perry, Ralph Barton Perry, Francis Bowes Sayre. Reasons: ". . . Neither the continued association of the Republican candidate with the reactionary element of the party nor his public utterances during the campaign give us any reason to believe that he has broken with that group. The best hope for a return to the liberalism of Roosevelt and Wilson lies in the election of Governor Smith."

"Government is something greater than an efficiently administered business corporation with a multitude of inactive shareholders. We support Governor Smith above all because of his power to reverse the present trend toward political apathy and arouse in the citizens of the United States an active, intelligent interest and participation in their Government."

Philosopher John Dewey, of Columbia University. Reason: "Consistent and intelligent progressivism."

One hundred and thirty-two members of the Johns Hopkins University faculty.

Robert Goellet, old-time Republican, Manhattan aristocrat-financier. Reason: "The best informed man on public affairs in the country."

will indicate, will be no set-up. Following that will be the annual struggle with the fighters from Radnor with their uncanny ability to convert arials into touchdowns, regardless of who throws them.

Lower Merion has her hands full for the rest of the season. One touchdown will not win any of these games, and the Maroon and White must fight and fight hard.

Radnor is likely to win its coming game with Lansdowne, but so, it will only give Lower Merion a fighting chance for the title.

Mandes, otherwise known as Ernie, has a leg injury which will slow him up somewhat; Lard Cunningham, the stalwart tackle, is out with an injured shoulder, and Red Kohlhas has an injured hip. These three boys will not be in the best of shape for tomorrow's scrap, but the rest of the team is in good physical condition. Coach Adam put the boys through two heavy scrimmages the past week to get them in a fighting humor for the coming struggle. Al Mandes, Edward Peters, George McLaughlin and Keith Parks are now forming the first-string backfield.

property hereabouts in those pioneer days and when Mr. Richards died Mr. McCarter continued the business with the co-operation of Howard E. Fritsch, who later took it over as Mr. McCarter became active in affairs in Philadelphia.

When Narberth was established as a borough in 1895 Mr. McCarter was at once drafted for service on the school board and he was its treasurer for three years. In 1908 he was elected as president of the board, a position he continued to hold until 1925. On his retirement the citizens of the community paid tribute to his 30 years of public service by tendering him a testimonial dinner at Elm Hall on January 16, 1926, when a handsome silver loving cup was presented to him. The affair was described as the most notable occasion ever held in Narberth and was attended by several hundred men and women. United States Senator George W. Pepper was one of the speakers and many local citizens vied with each other in expressing appreciation of Mr. Carter's devoted interest to the advancement of Narberth's school system.

It was his custom through all the years to go to the school daily, and he applied himself to all its numerous details in a manner which gave evidence that he accepted a high accountability for the task with which he was charged. His administration always won universal approval until five years ago, when the rapidly growing school population presented new problems and a wide diversity of public opinion as to the procedure which would best meet Narberth's requirements, both as to cost and curriculum.

The battle which raged afforded numerous interesting parallels with the experience in Philadelphia of Simon Gratz, who had also served school interests for many years and who had come in conflict with a new generation which was apparently unmindful of all that had gone before. Mr. McCarter never gave any signs that he was disturbed by the friction and he derived great satisfaction from the fact that those elected to the board in more or less opposition to his policy were quick to declare that his direction of the board was characterized by every consideration and courtesy for the opinion of each individual member.

Henry Rose, who is now dead, was one of his warmest supporters, and so was Robert J. Dohard, who also served on the school board. Mrs. E. J. Batchelor, the first woman director to be elected, has never ceased to be generous in her praise of Mr. McCarter's procedure, and it has frequently been said that there never would have been any ructions if the dead president had possessed the same facility for expressing himself publicly as he did in the close quarters of the school meetings.

The impressive affair which observed his retirement soothed all difficulties, as friend and foe acclaimed the unselfish and untiring nature of his service, and the archives will record that no other man ever gave so much of his time leadership at this time. He gave a very fine impartial resume of the candidates. Dr. Raiguel thinks we are turning to the middle west for the real interpretation of our ideals. There can be no change in prohibition no matter which party wins. He believes in Hoover's plan to industrialize the farmer and give him the protection he should have. He closed by saying that whoever is elected it will be an American worthy of the name and worthy of the trust placed in him.

The luncheon, served by Mrs. J. W. Darville and her committee, enjoyed the Halloween colorings carried out in the flowers, candles and table decorations which were most harmonious. Mrs. A. B. Ross, president of Montgomery County Federation of Woman's Clubs, was an honored guest, and a fine musical program was given by Master Bernard Muller. Mr. Jack Spratt accompanying him at the piano.

Two new members, Mrs. A. F. Martin and Mrs. Joseph R. Aiken, were introduced by Mrs. C. A. Farmer, president of the Club, who was in the chair. Two new members of the Board of Directors for the club, Mrs. George B. Suplee and Mrs. Horace McConnell, were also introduced.

The Woman's Community Club will broadcast over WFJ on Thursday, November 8, from three to four in the afternoon. Mrs. Harry Jacobs has assumed the chairmanship of the Red Cross drive which will be conducted under the auspices of the Woman's Club.

Democratic candidate and to give co-ordination to the new strength which is said to be developing, a borough campaign headquarters has been opened on Haverford avenue in the store formerly occupied by the Almar Company, where Smith literature on all the issues can be had and where directions will be supplied regarding the marking of ballots, etc.

The new depot will be in charge of the Women's Division of the Smith activities and it is also said that buttons and various other souvenirs are ready for distribution in liberal fashion.

It is also reported arrangements have been made to provide automobiles on election day to all Smith voters who request it and household service, including care of the children, is also stated to be available to those Smith adherents who desire it.

Similar headquarters in behalf of Hoover were established some time ago on Narberth avenue.

Routs Burglars

Fighting a pistol battle early Saturday with two burglars in his home at 102 Dudley avenue, Raymond R. Blydenburgh, 31, succeeded in routing both intruders after one of them shot a flashlight out of his hand and the other bowed him over with a piano stool.

Neighbors who heard the shooting and the shouting telephoned Lower Merion police. By the time they arrived, there was no trace of the burglars. They had taken nothing.

Blydenburgh received a bruise on one knee where he was hit by the piano stool. The walls of the rooms on the lower floor of the house were pitted with bullet holes.

Blydenburgh is employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad at Wilmington.

To Give Demonstration

A demonstration of electric stoves and refrigerators will be held in the social room of the Lutheran Church, Narberth and Woodbine avenues, on Thursday, November 9, at 2 P. M. Miss Shawl, home economist and representative of the Philadelphia Electric Company, will show the possibilities of electricity in the preparation and preservation of foods. An invitation is extended to the public to attend this demonstration and sample delicious foods prepared by Miss Shawl.

Roll Call Nears

Colonel J. Franklin McFadden, chairman of the Southeastern Pennsylvania chapter, reports 52 branches located in Bucks, Chester, Delaware and Montgomery counties, besides those in Philadelphia. Through the headquarters at 1610 Locust street, activities were directed for the Florida-Porto Rico Hurricane Relief Fund, which resulted in the collection of $335,000—more than $100,000 in excess of the quota for which the chapter was asked.

Through the Home Service work three ex-service men and their families have been aided in Narberth.

There were 51,841 visits made by 38 Red Cross nurses in 14 branches and 932 Child Welfare clinics were held in the five counties during the past nine months. The attendance at these clinics totaled 11,567. A dental hygienist, supported by the Junior Red Cross funds, treated 1045 children. Narberth makes many calls for its Red Cross nurse and sends many children to the clinics.

The Junior Red Cross is a growing movement, now enrolling 273,869 members in this chapter. These young people have made thousands of favors and scrap books for hospitals and nearly 2000 garments, besides their Christmas charities. Montgomery county has enrolled 12 schools of which the Narberth grammar school is one, having 500 members. Last year these Juniors raised $35, which was spent for milk for undernourished children.

The report of last year's roll call shows an adult membership of 138,893 members. This is the largest membership of any chapter in the United States and there are 3500 chapters in the American Red Cross.

Fellowship Gives

Hallowe'en Party

The parish house of All Saints' Church, Wynnewood, was the scene of a delightful masked Hallowe'en dance last Friday evening. The room was beautifully decorated in yellow and black, with cornstalks in each corner and grinning pumpkin faces gleaming in the windows. A fortune-telling booth was one of the main attractions and many were the deep, dark secrets therein foretold. More than 30 couples attended. Several lovely prizes were given for spot dances. Refreshments of cider, ginger cakes, pretzels, candy and candied apples were served. The Fellowship wishes to acknowledge the splendid work of Miss Ella Ross and her committee, who did so much to make the affair the great success that it was.

Last Sunday evening the Fellowship was addressed by Ralph D. MacGuffin, of Narberth, a man nationally known for his dealings with stamps, who gave a most interesting lecture on the subject of stamp collecting.

Tonight a card party will be held at Bill Dohard's, on Wynnewood road, Narberth. Prizes and refreshments.

Garage Burns

A fire of unknown origin on the property of T. Leaming Smith on Wynnewood road, starting along side a garage, caused damage estimated at $1500 before it was extinguished. The fire had gained considerable headway before it was discovered, all the apparatus of the Narberth Fire Company responding to the alarm. The loss was covered by insurance.

JOHN H. HISCOCK

John Harcourt Hiscock, of Wynnewood avenue, died at his home Monday night after an illness of a year. He was 55 years of age.

Mr. Hiscock was an advertising man and golf expert. At his home, also, he maintained a collection of mounted birds of foreign lands, familiar to many Narberth residents who have been his guests.

Born in England, Mr. Hiscock came to this country when a young man and began in this city as a newspaper reporter. He also acted as a golf editor for many years and was recognized as one of the leading golf experts of the country. He was formerly vice president of the Eugene McGuckin Advertising Company. He is survived by his wife, Helen, and two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Owen Crowhurst and Mrs. Frank Trangman.

Funeral services were held Wednesday from a Philadelphia funeral parlor.

REPUBLICAN VOTERS

HOOVER'S CAUSE IS THE CAUSE OF THE HOME. EVERY MAN OR WOMAN SHOULD FEEL THE DEEPEST PRIDE THAT HIS OR HER VOTE CAN HELP MAKE THIS GREAT MAN THE LEADER OF OUR COUNTRY.

He has the vision to understand great problems, the courage to undertake them, the ability to conquer them.

No other man knows so deeply the horrors of war and is so capable of commanding peace.

In 1914 he gave up his mining interests and the certainty of wealth to feed and clothe ten million war-ravaged people.

He saved the families of thousands of American farmers at the close of the War by persuading the Allies not to cancel contracts for American agricultural goods.

The following editorial appeared in the Saturday Evening Post for October 26, 1928.

Static

Rarely can the stump speaker survive the test of the radio. The ten thousand standing before him are in the humor for sound and fury; the ten million listening in can be caught only by convincing ideas and a constructive program.

Governor Smith's much touted "charm" and personality suffer severely at the hands of the radio. It reveals him as a rather superior Tammany politician—a master of appeal to prejudice; of attack by insinuation; and a sufferer from delusions of persecution. But when it comes to offering a constructive solution of the great questions before the country, he has no sound, workable answer. He begs the question, or, if he has an answer, it is the wrong one.

Particularly did the radio show up Governor Smith when he spoke in Oklahoma, though it has done him the same disservice on every occasion that he has used it. He must have placed a very low estimate upon the reasoning powers of his Oklahoma City audience or he would scarcely have ventured such transparent sophistry as characterized his speech in that city. Nettled by the opposition of Senator Owen on the score of his long affiliation with Tammany, he undertook to convince his audience that those who pretend to be against him because he is an outstanding member of the Tammany tribe, really oppose him on account of his religion and use Tammany merely as a red herring to drag across the trail.

Much as most of the Governor's opponents endeavored to keep religion out of the campaign, neither he nor Senator Robinson would let it drop. After declaring that "religion" is a word that ordinarily ought not to be mentioned in a political campaign, Governor Smith opened a keg of red herring himself and went on to say a great deal about religion and bigotry and intolerance, but little or nothing about Tammany. His own supporters have not been guiltless of attacking Mr. Hoover on religious and other personal grounds. But the former Secretary of Commerce is too sensible, too sure of the common sense of the voter to rush to the stump to deny the silly stories that are being circulated about him. Some of these are carefully calculated to appeal to race prejudice in the South, some are planned to hurt him in the North, and others with the farmers in the West. But Mr. Hoover holds no martyr pose, gives no sign of having a persecution complex. Governor Smith's friends should tell him that his reputation as a big, broad-minded, "happy warrior" has been badly jolted by the radio. Some of the stories that he repeated were preposterous on their face and called for no denial, when he could have used his radio time to some serious purpose—to add more definite facts and detailed programs to the promises and generalities he has been dealing in.

We are told that Governor Smith has "charm," personality—that he is a good friend and a good fellow. All this is no doubt true, but what the radio brings to us are the speeches of an opportunist, a politician who promises everything and offers no real solution for anything.

The country, for instance, would like to have him state clearly and in detail his reasons for believing that he could solve present problems and improve present conditions. . . .

The Builder

Now that the campaign is drawing to a close, there is one fact of which the people may rest assured—namely, that Mr. Hoover is peculiarly fitted by temperament, training and experience to meet the problems of the hour. The country has very nearly passed through the period of readjustment which followed the war. We would not dare say that the need for watchful economy which Mr. Coolidge has stressed is over; but willingly or not, the country is entering a period of vast construction, of broad, heavy economic problems with which Mr. Hoover is particularly fitted to cope.

No matter what the voter's individual personal preference may be, it is certain that the next few years will witness a scientific, economic and industrial revolution. Mr. Hoover has proved himself a master of emergencies; he has handled armies of men in many countries, and has dealt with many Governments in regard to matters of the largest import. We are more than fortunate in being able to hire such a general manager for the largest business in the world. It seems almost the hand of destiny that a man with such an equipment should be ready for the work before us.

New York City and Albany are important places, but Governor Smith himself must have too great a sense of humor to pretend that he is as well acquainted with as many sections of the country as Mr. Hoover. Certainly he has no such familiarity with international affairs. He has no such knowledge of agricultural problems and no such first-hand contact with vast operations in food supply and other commodities and industries.

But, it is said, Governor Smith, if elected President, will call conferences of the best authorities on agriculture, and take the advice of such men. Mr. Hoover, however, has not only had to do first-hand with these matters for years but has probably talked with more authorities and attended or called more conferences than any one else alive. Already he knows what the facts are; he does not have to learn them from the ground up.

Mr. Hoover has always evoked enthusiasm and loyalty from armies of assistants and employees. He has probably done more than any other man to bring about better homes in America. Those who meet him, whether for the first time or after hundreds of contacts, come away with the impression that he has a wonderful fund of information concerning every section of the country and its peculiar problems. But those who know him—and their name is legion—have a far more significant impression of him than this. They are convinced by every word and act and movement of the man that he is far more interested in the country's welfare than in his own. He has no time for egotism; his idea is to get the job done. The progress of the country is his underlying thought. The main issue now is properly to direct and perpetuate our prosperity and to use it for the highest purposes of humanity. Does any fair-minded person seriously doubt that Herbert Hoover is the outstanding man of the time for this appointed task?

This advertisement was paid for by women who, differing in race, creed and political party, are one in the belief that it is the clear duty and high privilege of American womanhood to elect Herbert Hoover President of the United States.
